DETAILED ACTION

Specification

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 21-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eskildsen et al. US patent no. 5,959,750 in view of Hayee et al. US patent no. 6,714,742.

Regarding claim 21, Eskildsen discloses a transmitter 82 for generating an optical multiplex signal suitable for transmission into an optical channel, the transmitter comprising:

a pseudorandom bit sequence (PRBS) generator (figure 4, element PRBS) for generating a plurality of independent PRBSs (col. 4, lines 52-54);

a plurality of electro-optical modulators (66a, 66b, 66c, 66d, col. 4, lines 43-44) each coupled to the PRBS generator and disposed for modulating the polarization mode of optical signal according to the pseudorandom bit sequence PRBS to form a modulated optical signal (col. 4, lines 52-54, col. 5, lines 25-34). In figure 4, Eskildsen does not specifically disclose an optical combiner disposed at one end of the optical channel for combining a plurality of the modulated optical signals to form the optical multiplex signal for transmission through the optical channel. However, Eskildsen discloses a MZ modulator 83 encodes a pseudorandom bit sequence onto one (or four) of the four carrier wavelengths (col. 4, lines 51-54) then transmit the optical multiplex signal for transmission through the optical link 86 (see figure 4).

Furthermore, Hayee discloses in figure 6, a multiplexer 610 (equivalent to combiner) for multiplexing wavelength λ_1 , λ_2 , .. λ_M in to a multiplexed signal and transmit it through the optical link 603 (see figure 6). Thus, if it is not inherent, it would be obvious to an artisan at the time of the invention was made to implement the MUX of Hayee in the system of Eskildsen in order to transmit a plurality of wavelength bands over a single optical fiber.

Regarding claim 22, Hayee discloses the optical channel comprises an optical Waveguide (col. 1, line 18).

Regarding claim 23, Eskildsen discloses the optical channel comprises a fiber optical channel 14 (col. 4, line 14).

Regarding claim 24, Hayee discloses the optical channel may be implemented in free space (col. 1, line 17).

Regarding claim 25, Hayee discloses the plurality of independent PRBSs are mutually orthogonal (col. 2, lines 23-24).

3. Claims 1-20 and 26-36 are allowed.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
- a. Zhengdi U.S. patent no. 5,706,275. Data transmission method, transmitter and receiver
 - b. DaSilva et al. U.S. patent no. 6,674,557. Wavelength Division Multiplexing system
